Note :

- We implemented the project with frontend and backend separately in a GitHub organization. But since it has been mentioned that we had to put a screenshot of the project from our GitHub profile, we had to make separate repositories and reupload the code again
- There are 2 repositories as Econnectee-frontend and Econnectee-backend for the front end and back end respectively. Both the links to the front end and the backend will be included in the document.
- For the respective projects, separate azure boards were created and linked to the respective GitHub repositories.
- The backlog items related to front end and back-end dev boards will be displayed in separate screenshots.
- The project implementation is over, and you can visit the completed solution here

Link : Econnectee \(econnecteee.web.app\)

You can login as an employee using UN and password combinations. If you have already given the facial credentials, you can use face authentication as well

- But for the demonstration of the dev boards, some items / bugs were marked as incomplete
- Due to the reuploading the code, the pulse and all other graphs are calculated for just one day with congested commits
- Github branches management was done as feature branches rather than member branches. But those feature branches were renamed by adding the IT number to get an idea of who was responsible for each branch
 - Ex: feature/ Employeelogin was renamed to IT19132310-feature/Employeelogin
- We have also included the contribution graph and the code frequency of the previous repository at the end of the document.
